THE NEW TESTAMENT. The Demand for It in this Country and owing to the demands made upon their employes. In the warehouses and stores were 100000 copies, which would be soon disposed of, judging from the outlook. The firm had delivered over 250,000 copies to-day. The delivery began at 3 o'clock in the moraing, in time to connect with the trains, and from half-past 4 to 7 o'clock most of the New York publishers were supplied. The twenty-cent edition was most in demand.

At the stores of the booksellers generally, it was ascertained that the demand for the testament was considerably in excess of the supply.
About 75,000 copies were taken by New York booksellers, 35,000 going to one house; 20,000 volumes went to Chicago, and 10,000 to San Francisco. The American share of the Cambridge edition, 250,000 copies, was issued by Lippincott, in Philadelphia, to the trade at the same time that the New York publishers received their copies.

WITH more than six months until the meeting of congress, the president ought to have a quiet time.

THERE seems to be money enough to de the business of the country, and there is a good deal of business to do.

THE senate adjourned sine die late last evening, and a remarkable chapter in the history of that body has closed.

What an immense moral revolution has taken place in this country since, say 1876, or no further back than 1874 at any rate. Nothing shows this plainer than that Mexco letter of General Grant's. How sadly out of tune it was. How it grated. Who will say on reading that clanging utter ched on the low key of politics as they were when Grant was a factor in them that there has not been a great and opeful uplifting?

THE extent of the religious interest now felt in this city is a remarkable thing. It is gradully, but strongly extending to every church, and a work of great promise and value seems fairly begun. Christians have been lamenting over the apathy and coldness of the church for a long time, but how it looks as if the ley barriers were melting and streams of grace beginning to flow. The large audiences that gather night after night show that this is no ephemeral sen-action, but a deep scated intense interest in the things that concern the soul.

ent in 1874, turned out Judge Russ had not expired, and put in Ben Batler's creature, Simmons, in spite of the written protests of Senators Summer and Boutwell, and a majority of the Massachusetta delegawas most active in speaking and voting in | in the minds of boys growing to manhood

If the republicans of New York re-elect Conkling and Platt to the senate, New York is inevitably lost to them. Those two senators have avowed that they will go back as independent, and fight this administration to the death. Conkling has said if Robertson was made collector, New York would be lost to the republicans. If he is put in place now, he will make his word good. On the other hand, if the republicans should elect Governor Cornell and Robert son to the senate, they would have the same grip on the state they have now, those senators and the administration would be pulling together against a common enemy. and they could not in any event do more than lose the state, which they are certain to do if Conkling and Annex are returned. Plainly the only thing for the republican majority in the New York legislature, is to stick together in electing two republicans who are pledged to work for the success of the party, and not for its defeat.

THE tangled "expert" testimony in Whittaker's case leaves the impression that little reliance can be placed in that sort of evidence in any case involving moral or intellectual operations. In other words, no man can ever become an "expert" in these processes and conditions, outside of his own, as he can in those appertaining to physical science. The latter is built on and of facts. The former is largely speculative. "Moral science" is little more than guesses at the action of moral qualities One men thinks Whittaker cut his ears himself to evade an examination, another that he had no such motive; a third is sure that he wrote the threatening letters; a fourth proves that he couldn't; one doctor maintains that he was rational and responsible, another that he was in a trance. There is no "expertness" where there is so much difference with equal qualifications and opportunities. In physical science. in the operations of material laws, in chemical analysis, in microscopical investigations, there is "expertness" that can be trusted, that can swear to conclusions with-out hesitation, and enlighten a jury with-out a rational chance of misleading it, but there can be no such perfection of knowedge and confidence of evidence in the "sciences" that affect to dissect motives, impulses, convictions and intellectual processes. There is but one great "expert" for that work, and his will appear on the last

AT the time the legislature of '72 and '73 was perfecting the cash assessment system -which was never given a decent chance to show its quality—The News urged a reform of the county board arrangement. It said, as our contemporaries are saying now, that the plan was devised and adapted to a very different condition of things from that nearly sixty years later. The misfit is greater now, and must grow constantly worse as the state grows. Marion county has a larger reveaue, heavier expenses, a larger pay roll, more business, and more important business, than the state had when the county triumvirate was confifty legislators and a governor to look after her diminutive interests, while the county had but three commissioners, and no official check at all. The triumvirate, in legal capacity, is as absolute as the ezar. It is too much power for the size of the depository. Usually county boards have been made of about as honest men as there were in the county, and while this order of selection is continued, no great harm may come of a delayed reform. But sometimes commissioners have not been honest, and there is no dependence on the continued selection of good men. Consequently a vision for the limitation or division of county power would be a prudent measure. If the three commissioners had nothing to do but regulate the county asylum they would have enough, if such cases as Wilson's are liable to occur frequently. With courts, reads, bridges, jails, taxes, debts, bonds and other forms of finance to look

Some one asked Bishop Peck at the late Maine Methodist conference if a minister ought to run for congress. The bishop thoughtfully replied, "Yes, yes, when it is perfectly evident that he is fit for nothing else."—[Item.

If Bishop Peck made that remark he has laid himself open to well merited censure for fostering a vicious and degrading prac tice-we had well nigh said habit-which of late seems to have had only too wide encouragement. Congress and state legislatures are simply representative bodies of the people, and when they are sneered at the people are simply sneering at them-selves. The stream will not rise above its source. If, according to Bishop Peck, congress is only properly the resort of men who are fit for nothing else, then this American people are degraded. Congress is a reflex of the people. We recognize that some of this opprobrium springs from the workings of machine politics, by which unworthy men, and nonentities like Platt of New York, are foisted into plat; and perhaps too, the day of carpet-baggery, when the scum of the earth was sent from the south to misrepresent it, has left its legacy in this shape, but nevertheless it is a loose and careless habit we have fallen into this disrespectful, villifying manner of speaking of the people's representative bodies. Its effects are the worst possible. It breeds contempt, profound and permanent. The step from contempt for the lawmaking power to contempt for the laws it makes is very short and easy. Good Bishop Peek, of all men, should remember the scripture which lays its injunction upon "speaking evil of dignitaries." It is a process of deep degradation which looks upon these bodies of the people's representa-tives as nuisances, if nothing worse. It is a direct bid for loose behavior that is close akin to lawlessness. American ideas of what constitutes law are crude and that state legislatures and congress are the last refuge of decent men, places to be avoided by all true ambition. Give honor to the people's representatives! Teach all that, as such, it is a proud place to occupy for any who worthily fills it.

The forced resignation of Prof. Russell has brought the condition of Cornell university out, and an Ithaca letter to the New York Times says that too much money has been spent in handsome buildings and fine grounds and too little on the brain department, where the salaries are small; good men allowed to go for lack of a small advance, and other good men like Russell fired out because they do not accord with the provincial notions of a lot of rich men who control it, but who know very little about the intellectual needs of a college, Ten years ago there were 609 under graduates now there are only 399.

The "mysterious developments" which it has been hinted Conkling holds in reserve, are said to be that the Star-route thieves have made common cause with him; that all the facts, all the evidence, oral and documentary, calculated to connect some the cabinet with the Star-route ring have been placed in his possession, and that he will use it as a glass bomb, so to speak, with which to blow up the administration. "Meantime," says the Washington Star, 'the administration does not seem to be afraid of any explosion, and the investigation of the frauds goes on deliberately but surely—grinding slowly but exceeding

With the "new process" flour Minneapolis flour took a front rank in the market. The production of the mills of that city in 1860 was only 30,000 barrels yearly. Last year it was 2,051,840 barrels. The capacity of all the mills there is now 25,255 barrels per day. The water used amounts to about 9,000 horse-power, and the Minneapolis Tribune says that there are still over 100,-000 horse-power to be had.

After their roaring talk about "The Nation," and "National Soveneignty" last year, the republican senators have this year gone over to the state sovereignty position, showing that they have no sincerity whatever, sand shift to either extreme to suit thems lyes. The extreme state rights advocate in the country to-day are Jefferson Davis, eRoscoe Conkling, George Frisbie Hoar, Dawes, Burnside and Anthony.—[Louisville Courier-Journal.

So far as it affects the workingman him-self, the high tariff is a delusion. It in-creases the price of everything he has to buy to such an extent as to seriously diminish the purchasing power of his money, and make his wages hardly more than nominally higher than the foreigner receives.

The resurrected clap-trap that Bob Ingersoll preaches can not hurt true religion. He says nothing new, but he puts old matter into most eloquent language. The only men that he can hurt are those who are determined to shut their eyes to the revolution in thought and learning that has been going on for the past three generations. Formulated creeds may suffer under the onalaughts of the irreverent Bob, but religion itself is planted too deep in the heart of man to be shaken by blasts from such a penny trumpet.—[St. Louis Globe Democrat. A few months before Tweed died in jail I held a conversation with him, among other things, on a permanent clerical body, removed from party spirit, for the city of New York. The old man said: "I am today a victim of success in seizing power which did not belong to me. For years I was engaged in making offices for other people. Finally I could not take enough offices for the cormorants around me; they were all stealing, and I had to permit it to keep myself up. And now," said Tweed, "we are all rained, and I shall probably rot in jail." He expressed the opinion that nothing would save the institutions of America but the segregation of the public work from the passions of an election.

A Queer Meeting. (St. Louis Chronicle.)

Last Sunday a man got into the Union depot line car No. 64, at the corner of Fourth and Pine street, with his wife and two children to go west. While walting for the car to start he asked the driver if he knew a man named Rall who worked on the read.

"What do you want of him?" queried the driver.

"Well, you see, mister, he is my brother and I havn't seen him since 1854 and I thought I would hunt him up."

"My God!" said the driver, "is it possible? So it is. Why, I'm the man you are looking for." And so it proved.

Tunnel Under the Channel.

The preliminary borings for the proposed English channel tunnel are progressing at the rate of twenty-five feet per day of ten hours, a drift-way about seven feet in diamter having been carried to a length of about a thousand feet. It is intended to drift the tunnel to a depth of two thousand feet below the bed of the channel to reach a geological formation which will allow of a level grade until the other side is nearly reached.

New York Provinciatism.

Some of the real elements of Paris exist in this city, which is not much aroused by anything outside of its own life. There are probably thousands and tens of thousands of native New Yorkers who have never been further from the city than Coney Island. Many of them have never crossed the Hudson river, and know no more about Jersey City than St. Louis or San Francisco.

When sometimes our feet grow weary,
On the rugged hills of life—
The path stretching long and dreary,
With trial and labor rife—
We part on the tollsome journey,
Glancing backward in valley and glen
And sigh with infinite longing
To return and begin again,

Far behind is the dew of the morning, In all its freshness and light, And before are doubts and shadows, And the chill and gloom of the night, We remember the sunny places

We passed so carelessly then, And ask with a passionate longing,
To return and begin again,

Ah! vain, indeed, is the asking!
Life's duties press all of us on
And who dare shrink from the labor,
Or sigh for the sunshine that sgone?
And, it may be, not far on before us
Wait fairer places than then:
Life's path may yet lead by still waters
Though we may not begin again.

For evermore _ward and onward Be our paths on the hills of life, And soon with a radiant dawning Transfigure the toil and the strife, And our Father's hand will lead us Tenderly upward then; In the joy and peace of a fairer world He'll let us begin again.

Henry Villard, the railroad manager, was born in Speyer, the capital of Rhenish Bavaria, in 1835. He came to this country when twenty-one years old, was among the first of the Pike's Peak emigrants, and afterward acted as a newspaper correspondent. Wisconsin papers relate that a young business man of Shawano, who is a freethinker of the most advanced pattern, recently advertised for a wife, stating that he wanted a wife who thought as he did "on religion." Some half a dozen girls, who thought just as he did, promptly answered his advertisement in person. He married one of them and felt happy; but his happiness was short-lived, for his wife, who agreed with him on religion perfectly, was as free in her habits and deportment as she was in thought. She freely left him in two weeks after her marringe, and is now freely plying her peculiar trade in Green Bay.

Four years ago, it is said, Lerd Beaconefield knew no more of his young heir, Coningsby Disraeli, than of any other child of his tender age. One day the boy presented himself at Downing st., and after several rebuffs, was shown into the presence of his uncle. The prime minister was amused, liked the boy, asked him to Hughenden, declared he had the stuff of a man in him, and that a man he should be made; and ended by sending him to the Charter house. A month ago the British public cared nothing about Coningsby Disraeli; now the fact of his accompanying his parents to a hotel is gravely chronicled as an event of importance.

ADULTERATED VINEGAR.—Some remarks revealed on some remains the adulteration of a are made in the annual report, just published the inspector of vinegar for the city of Bost The total amount of liquid sold and need in Bos the inspector of vinegar for the city of Bosto. The total amount of liquid sold and used in Bosto each year under the name of vinegar is estimate at about three million gallons. Of this, the is spector declares, less than ene-tenth is pure applicate, the rest being a villatnous decoction of misses, glucose, acetic acid, sour ale, larger beer, dittillery slope, etc., made for about half the lower possible cost of pure cider vinegar. Nor is this ai nor even the worst view of the case. Such sutstaices as oil of vitriol and other mineral acid are brought into requisition. One cent's worth of sulphuric acid is sufficient for the manufacture of four gallons of vinegar, and when disguised by other ingredients, its presence can not be detected by taste alone. Much of this wretched stuff, its believed, has been sold in the Boston market a pure apple vinegar. Fifteen hundred barrels of it in a single cargo were selzed by the officers, and affity barrels more were expured in a warehous and shipped back to the former owners. The extent to which this lilegal and inhuman business is carried on is shown by the fact that the wholesale price of vinegar in Boston averages 9 cents per gallon, much of it being sold as low as 6 cents, while the genuine article can not be manufactured for less than 12% cents per gallon. It is only natural that the inspector, in conductive and gallen, much of it being sold as low as 6 cents, while the genuine article can not be manufactured for less than 12/5 cents per gallon. It is only natural that the inspector, in concluding his report, should attribute the high death rate of the city largely to the consumption of these deleterious con pour ds.

The large amount of impure and adulterated vinegars now offered in this market, coming in direct compels us, in self-defense, to caution the public against them, at the same time presenting a certificate from one of our best-known chemists, and asking investigation as to the purity and wholesomeness of our vinegars.

A Forgotten Project.

Some dozen years ago, or more, a skating pond was constructed at considerable expense on the slope of the creek bottom west of the rolling mill, a sluice-way and gates made, house for keeper built, ticket office provided, and a permanent institution amply equipped, established. It ran at a loss for a winter or two, and disappeared wholly. The house has been a tenement house, and the pond a potato patch or corn field ever since. Yesterday the house was settled in a new location, on the north bank of the creek, near Mississippi street. The old skating pond of L.W. Moses & Co., is as if it had never been. It will soon be covered by the steel mill works. A Forgotten Project.

The School Board.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the school board was held last night. A communication was received from Wm. Sullivan, the board's attorney, asking instructions regarding the suits of the city on the Gregg bequest. The trustee of the bequest was ordered to settle the claim of Mr. Sullivan. Bills amounting to $557.11 were ordered paid, and pay rolls amounting to $10,896.60 were also allowed. The committee on high schools recommended the purchase of a case of books from Mrs. Duncan, if it could be made for $50. The consideration of the report of this committee was postponed two weeks. The same committee reported in favor of lengthening the term of the two classes of the normal school from twenty to twenty-five weeks, and from twenty to twenty-eight weeks respectively, and the expenditure of $50 for books in the reference library, was concurred in, and the board adjourned. County Asylum.

To the Editor of The Indianapolis News: As every one is now talking about the one outrage which has been discovered in the county asylum the question naturally suggests itself to the humane heart, "how can these inhuman acts be substituted by kind and benevolent ones." To this interby kind and benevolent ones." To this interogatory various answers may be given. It affords a text for a short volume and he who is qualified and has had the personal experience should write it. Our county asylum has been prostituted to political purposes. We assert that no man has had the superintendence of that institution that possessed the necessary qualifictions for so important a charge.
In their life work and calling they were good men, but to be taken from their farms, and placed in an institution such as our county asylum is now, the such as our county asylum is now, the charge is too varied and complicated for them to comprehend, hence a signal failure in every appointment.

in every appointment.

Some ten or twelve years ago, the county of Vigo finished and completed their county house. The first thing they did was to send out into the state a commission in search of a suitable man to act as superintendent. They came to Indianapolis, and were directed to a man who had had an education of several years in our hospital for the insane; they are who had had an education of several years in our hospital for the insane; they employed him, and he is to-day in their employ. He was a success, and will daubtless remain with them for years to come.

A Card.

To the Editor of The Indianapolis News:
Inasmuch as Dr. Munhall has been led into the error of believing that I had advertised a Sunday night concert to take place at my theatre on Sunday night next and has been at considerable trouble to have it so announced through the daily press, and desiring that the people shall not be disappointed, I wish to hereby publicly tender him, or the Young Men's christian association, the free use of my theatre building on that evening, or any future Sanday evening that they may desire, to give a sacred concert or conduct such other public services as they may see proper. The Zoological department will also be thrown open to them if desired. I sm constrained to make this liberal offer as a partial recompense to Dr. Munhall for his, doubtless, well-meant efforts in my behalf, and for the further reason that I do not desire to be considered wholly bad by those from whose religious belief I may conscientiously choose to dissent. DRESSING FOR A PHOTOGRAPH. How Colors Change in the Camera-Why Actresses Take the Best Pictures. "The question is often asked," said an experienced photographer, "why actors and actresses take the most pleasing pictures. It is because they study the principles of art and good taste in their profession and understand how to dress. Moreover, they usually bring a selection of yeils, flowers, curls, braids, laces and sometimes costumes to give the photographer a choice of accessories. They come when they are wholly at leisure and are not flustered. A red face takes black, and they know it. Then they [New York Sun.]

at leisure and are not flustered. A red face takes black, and they know it. Then they do not load themselves down with gewgaws and haberdasheries, to show all that they have got in worldly goods. Few persons know how to dress for a picture like an actress. The best materials for ladies to wear when about to sit for a photograph are such that will fold or drapp nicely, like reps, winceys, poplins, satins and silks. Lavender, lilac, sky blue, purple and French blue take very light, and are worse for a picture than pure white. Corn color and salmon are better. China pink, rose pink, magenta, crimson, pea green, buff, plum color, dark purple, pure yellow, mazarine blue, navy blue, fawn color, Quaker color, dove color, ashes of roses and stone color show a pretty gray pure yellow, mazarine blue, navy blue, fawn color, Quaker color, dove color, ashes of roses and stone color show a pretty gray in the photograph. Scarlet, claret, garnet, sea-green, light orange, leather color, light Bismarck and slate color take still darker, and are excellent colors to photograph. Cherry, wine color, light apple-green, Metternich green, dark apple-green, bottlegreen, dark orange, golden and red brown show nearly the same agreeable color in the picture. A black silk always looks well, and it takes well if not bedecked with ribbons and laces that will take white. Dark Bismarck and suuffbrown usually take blacker than a black silk or satin, and are not easy to drape. A silk, because it has more gloss and reflects more light, usually takes lighter than a woolen dress. Ladies with dark or brown hair should avoid contrasts in their costumes, as light substances photograph more quickly than dark, and ladies with light hair should dress in something lighter than those whose hair is dark or brown. Few ladies know how to arrange their hair so as to harmonize with the form of the head, but blindly follow the fashion, be the neck long or short, or the face marrow or broad. A broad face appears more so if the hair is arranged low over the forehead or is parted at the side, and a long neck becomes stork-like when the hair is built up high, while a few curls would make a most agreeable change in the effect. Powdered hair gives good effect, and powder should be bestowed upon freekles.

What A Prominent and Well-Known

A representative of this paper while lounging met a gentleman whom he had known years be seen him. After some general talk, the doctor fell into an easy train of conversation and ut-

'Yes," said the doctor, "I have improved in health since you last saw me, and I hope also in many other ways. One thing, however, I have succeeded in doing, and it is one of the hardest things for any one, and especially a doctor to do, and that is I have overcome my prejudices. You know there are some people who prefer to remain in the wrong rather than acknowledge the manifest right. Such prejudice leads to bigotry of the worst order, and of precisely the same nature as characterized the sixteenth century when people were burned at the stake. Now I am a physician, and of the old school order, too; bu I have, after years of experience and observation, come to the conclusion that truth i the highest of all things, and that if prejudice or bigotry stand in the way of truth, so much the worse for them-they are certain to be crushed sooner or later. Why, when I knew you in Detroit, I would have no sooner thought of violating the code of ethics laid down by the profession, or of prescribing anything out of the regular order, than I would of amputating my hand. Now, however, I prescribe and advise those things which I believe to be adapted to cure, and which my experience has proven to be such." .

"This is rather an unusual way for a physician to talk, is it not, doctor?" "Certainly it is. It is way outside of our code of ethics, but I have grown far beyond the code. I have all I can attend to, and am determined to be honest with my patients and mankind, whether my brother physicians are with me or not. Why, I prescribe medicines every day, some of them so-called patent medicines, which would render me liable to expulsion from the medical fraternity, but I am supremely indiffer ent to their laws." When man, he was giving his entire time and attention to an extensive medical practice, and was on the crest of the wave of popularity. From Detroit he removed to New York where he could find a more extensive field for his talents and experience. Although several years had passed, the doctor's physical condition had evidently very much improved, for he was looking much better than when the man of news had last tered some truths so scientific and valuable, a to justify their reproduction in print.

"Invariably, and it is sufficient ground for expulsion from any medical society in the land to prescribe any patent medicine whatever, no matter if it is made from an exact formula, such as physicians are using every day. You see the code is established and sustained by old physicians like myself, who make the rules and insist upon their enforcement in order to keep the younger,doctors from obtaining a foothold and encroaching upon the already established pracit; they are fettered by the code, and have only

However, I did quietly begin strong for that. However, I did quietly begin trying the remedy, but I promise you I said nothing to my brother physicians, of even to my family about it. Well, sir, it was a revelation to me; for in all my medical experience I never saw anything operate so rapidly or so effectually as that did. Interesting Reports and Addresses on

The session of the Baptist publication society having closed, vesterday afternoon was devoted to the tenth anniversary of the Baptist women's foreign missionary societies. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. T. Howe, of Chicago, president of the missionary society of the west. Mrs. Howe welcomed to the west the societies of the east and Pacific slope. The annual report of the secretary of the western society, Mrs. A. M. Bacon, Dundee, Illinois, was read. It gave no details Rev. Dr. Murdock, secretary of the mission board commended the societies for their co-operation in raising funds and supplying missionaries. Mrs. Marie T. Richards, Providence, R. The number of missionaries had increased from 38 to 40, and of bible women from 35 to 47. The society was aiding in the support of 78 schools in which were 2,316 scholars and 89 baptisms during the past year. Missionaries were distributed among the Burmese, Karens, Shans, Chinese, Japanese, Asamees, Teloogoos, French and Africans. Contemplated repairs on school houses had been postponed for want of funds. Mrs. C. T. Talman, of Chicago, vice-president of the western society presented a report which showed there had been no denicit at any time during ten-years and that twenty-four missionaries had been sent out to foreign lands. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. J. M. Haswell, veteran missionary in Burmah, Mrs. Melville Jameson, missionary both in Burmah and to the Karens, Miss Susan Haswell, who was born of missionary parents in Burmah and Mrs. Beacher, formerly of Basseen, Burmah.

In the evening a general Baptist conference was held, presided over by Hon. Robert O. Fuller of Massachusetts, both clergymen and laymen taking part. The first discussion of the evening was on the subject, "What more can be done to promote the highest efficiency of the Baptist denomination in the whole country." Rev. J. M. W. Williams D. D., Baltimore, after presenting a resolution of congratulation and good will from the southern Baptists, said the wants of the church were a regenerated church, better employment of the influence of women, obliteration of Mason and Dixon's line, encouragement of colored Baptists and more money. Judge Thomas W. Newman, of Iowa, spoke on the same subject. The next subject was "Is the holding at an early day of a general conference, representing all the Baptists of this continent desirable?" Addresses taking an affirmative view were delivered by Mr. Fuller and Dr. Lemuel Moss, of Indiana. A resolution was then adopted referring the matter to a committee of ten, to report at the next annual meetings of the societies. The chairman will appoint the committee to-day.

ROME MISSIONS.

The Baptist home mission society met this morning in the First Presbyterian church, and continued in session until 10 o'clock. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Austen, president of the Women's home mission society of Michigan. Mrs. Pollard of Boston, was called to be secretary. Miss Grettie Y. Hollidty, of this city, gave a synopsis of the home mission work of the Presbyterians of this state.

Mrs. Carrie B. Dyer, a teacher of the National freedmens institute in Tennessee, gave an outline of the educational work among the freedmen in the south and especially in the institution with which she is connected. Mrs. Trowbridge, of Detroit, then reperted of the work of the Women's Home mission society of Michigan. Mrs. Sharp, formerly of Indianapolis, favored the audience with singing. Mrs. N. A. Hyde, of Indianapolis, then gave a review of the work of the home mission of the Congregationalists of this state. The jubilee singers from the Nashville freedman's institute then sang, after which Mrs. Stone, of Ohio, now teaching at Selma, Alabama, talked of the work being done in her field of labor. Nearly all of the speakers referred to the educational and missionary work among the colored people of the south, and it was apparent that the christian people of all denominations are united in an earnest effort to educate and elevate the colored race at the south, and at the same time to implant in their minds the principles of christianity.

FORRIGN MISSIONS.

The Baptist foreign missionary union held its seventieth annual meeting at the First Baptist church this morning. After devotional exercises the address was delivered by Rev. George Dana Boardman, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church, Philadelphia. The reverend gentleman is the son of George Dana Boardman, first missionary to Karens, and stepson of the sainted Dr. Adoniram Judson, the Burmah missionary, whose work will be remembered as long as the christian church endures. In addition to an illustrious ancestry, Dr. Boardman has a high personal reputation as a preacher and platform speaker, and his address this morning was an effort worthy of the great cause, with the interests of which he is so intimately associated.

Before the address began Dr. Blackburn presented Dr. Boardman on behalf of the union the chair of Dr. Adoniram Judson Dr. Boardman said he hardly knew which was the greater honor to occupy the chair of the presidency of this society or the chair of Adoniram Judson. He thanked the acciety for this honor. He then proceeded to his address the greater honor to eccept the proceeded to his address. FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Dr. Jameson, missionary to the Basseins, in Burmah, then addressed the meeting. He related the progress of the missionary work in his field. The controlling power of Budhism is an almost invincible obstacle to Christian work there. He described some of the peculiarities of the Budhists. The following committees on missions were announced;

On China and Japan—Rev. J. B. Thomas, New York; Rev. S. P. Burchet, China: J. F. S. Dobbins, Penn; W. W. Hammond, M. Lev. H. P. Conant, Mass.
On the Telegus—Rev. F. M. Ellis, M. Lev. A. A. Newhall, Madras; Rev. W. P. C. E. ades, Ohio: Rev. E. H. E. Jameson, Neb; Rev. J. Gordon, N. Y.
On Europe—Rev. Geo. C. Lorimer, Ill.; Rev. R. S. MacArthur, N. Y.; Rev. H. F. Colbe, O.; Rev. H. M. Hart, Me.
On Africa—Rev. C. W. Gardner, Mass.; Rev. P. S. Henson, Penn.; Rev. J. S. Swain, N. H.; Rev. E. M. Brawley, S. C.; Rev. W. H. Brooks, La.

Dr. Mable proposed a Christian salutation to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in session at Buffalo, N. Y., which was adopted.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, who was in the audience, was called upon for remarks and responded briefly.

American and Foreign Bible Society.

The American and Foreign Bible society, an organization, which, though separate and distinct from the other Baptist societies now in national convention, is composed of Baptists, met at the Christian church yesterday afternoon. The object of the society is to translate, revise and circulate the scriptures in heathen lands. Their purpose is not approved by the conservative element of the Baptist church, for the reason it is believed the regular publication society covers the field. At one time the society in question received the full support of the church. It is very old and has a long record of good works. The leaders attempted to obtain a hearing before the other societies and to secure a place upon the floor of the convention with them, but was refused. The members then met in separate organization yesterday and determined to prosecute their work independent of the favor of the publication society, and to appeal to the church at large. A resolution, however, was adopted, instructing the corresponding secretary to make application to the committee of arrangements for the year 188., for an appropriate place among the anniversaries of the societies of the Baptist denomination.

McKENZIE'S AD.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 21, 1881. frs. Busy Bee, Lafayette, Ind.: Now be you this winter? Up here in Indiana polls it has been stinging cold, so things don't hum as they did last summer. I suppose you which says all the bees are in cells in your place. I would like to know if they put you in cells io stinging that boy on the neel last summer. If so, it is a shame. If we sting a boy in this city they put the boy in the cell for fooling around us. I stung a boy last summer, and he went and vengeance in his eye, and I told him to "git." He inquired who struck his only son, and I told him I did. He said I "ought to be ashamed," out on his head, and that father broke half the ommandments in less than a minute, and came in my way I would put the biggest head on him he ever had. J. A. McKenzie, the Clothier, told me I might, and I am going to do
